

Attractors for Various Classes of Iterated Function Systems

T H Steele

Let X be a compact metric space with S a finite set of contraction maps from X to itself. Call a non-empty subset F of X an attractor for the iterated function scheme S if F is invariant with respect to the set of contractions found in S . We discuss recent results that describe the structure of attractors generated by various classes of contractive systems.