New Course Rationale
New Course and Reinstating an Inactive Course proposals must address these questions:

(If you need more space, please attach a word document)

1. New Course only: What is the distinctive contribution of this course to the General Education and/or major curriculum of your department or program?

2. Reinstating an Inactive Course only: When was this course last taught? Is the reinstated course to be substantially the same as it was before? If not, what are the substantial changes?

3. What impact will this course have on departmental staffing and teaching assignments? Will other courses in your department be eliminated or taught less often?

4. What is the anticipated enrollment size for this course, and how did you determine that? What population of students will this course serve?

5. On what basis did you determine the appropriate level and prerequisites for this course?

6. In consultation with the Collection Development Librarian and the Director of Academic Computing Center, describe how current library and computing resources could support this course with additional materials or services.

7. How often will this course be offered? On what basis did you determine that?

8. Will the course require any classroom technology that will determine classroom assignment?
