THE PROGRAM

PHILHARMONIA MARTIN HODEL, CONDUCTOR

Prelude to the Opera Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg

Richard Wagner (1813-1883)

The late Romantic composer Richard Wagner wrote the Prelude to Act I of his opera, Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg (The Mastersingers of Nuremberg) in April 1862 and first presented it in concert in Leipzig on November 1 that year. Set in the middle of the sixteenth century, the opera tells the story of a song competition, in which the grand prize is the hand in marriage of the city goldsmith's daughter, Eva. The talented, but untrained (i.e. not one of the Meistersinger) Walther ultimately prevails in the competition over the tradition-bound Beckmesser, to Eva's delight. Hans Sachs, a musically important historical figure and real-life Meistersinger, is set as a pivotal character in the drama.

As in most opera overtures — and by his own admission — the composer used the Act I prelude to present many of the themes heard later in the opera. Using what became his trademark system, Wagner portrays groups, characters — and even individual characters' emotions — using recognizable musical representations. The opening majestic processional theme, and the fanfare-like theme heard soon thereafter depict the powerful trade guilds of the time. Walther's romantic overture to Eva is a lyrical theme given to the winds; there is also a theme based on ill-mannered musical apprentices, and even a fugue representing a noisy crowd. Wagner ingeniously brings the three main themes together near the end, creating a rich and vibrant texture and heroic mood.
